

Senator Packwood to speak at Gallaudet's 119th Commencement

Gallaudet's 119th Commencement will be held next Monday, May 23 in the Field House. The event will begin at 10:30 a.m.

This year's Commencement speaker will be Senator Bob Packwood (R-OR), chairman of the Senate Commerce, Science and Transportation Committee. Packwood was largely responsible for Congress' transfer of the property to Gallaudet which has become the College's new Northwest Campus, to open this fall as the School of Preparatory Studies. The property was formerly owned by the U.S. Fire Administration and was under the jurisdiction of Packwood's committee. Packwood's wife Georgie, by the way, is also the great-great-granddaughter of Amos Kendall.

Senator Packwood received his BA from Willamette University in Salem, OR in 1954. He went on to study at New York University School of Law, receiving his LLB in 1957. In 1962, he became the youngest member elected to the Oregon legislature. He served three terms in the legislature before election to the U.S. Senate in 1968 as the youngest senator in the 91st Congress. He is currently in his third Senate term.

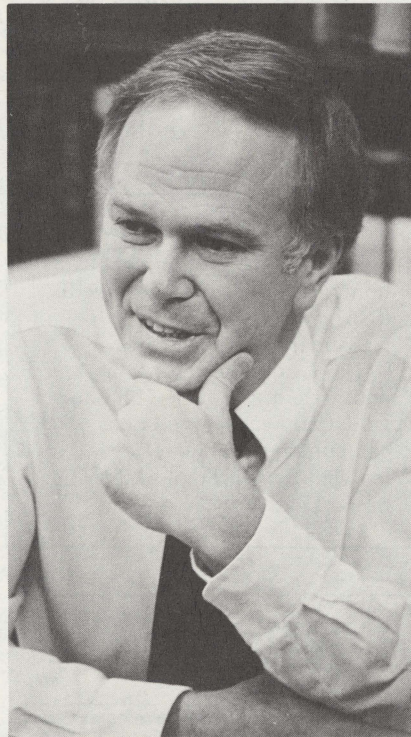

In addition to chairing the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation, Packwood is also a member of the Senate Finance Committee and the Senate Small Business Committee.

Packwood will receive one of three honorary degrees to be presented at the Commencement ceremonies. Another honorary degree recipient will be Andre Saint-Antonin, a deaf leader in France and international spokesman on deafness.

During the morning of May 23, a breakfast will be held from 7-9 a.m. in the College dining hall. Free breakfast tickets for faculty and administrators are available in the offices of Deans Thomas Landers (School of Education and Human Services), David Tweedie (School of Communication) and James Madachy (College of Arts and Sciences).

This will be the last Commencement with President Edward C. Merrill, Jr. presiding. Merrill, who has been president since 1969, will be retiring Sept. 30.

Gallaudet's Ole Jim has been restored as an Alumni House.

Ole Jim lunch ends

Friday, May 20 will be the last day for the lunch program in the Ole Jim through the summer. The Ole Jim will re-open for lunch in September. Happy Hour will continue through the summer on Thursdays and Fridays from 4-6 p.m.

College receives award for Ole Jim

Gallaudet College has received a 1983 National Trust Honor Award from the National Trust for Historic Preservation for the Gallaudet campus Historic District and, in particular, for the recent restoration of the Alumni House.

President Edward C. Merrill, Jr. received the award, consisting of a check for $500 and a plaque citation, on May 6 at the annual membership meeting of the National Trust, held in the auditorium of the National Academy of Sciences.

The "Ole Jim," a Victorian gymnasium which housed the nation's second indoor swimming pool, has been restored as a multi-purpose College and alumni activity center. It is part of Gallaudet's 14-acre Historic District, designed by architect Frederick Law Olmsted.

Gallaudet was one of 18 organizations and individuals recognized on May 6 for their "excellence and perseverance in spurring the cause of historic preservation." According to the National Trust, "the diversity of their activities and projects is impressive and bridges architecture, business, construction, development, open land conservation and fine arts. Together, the award winners represent the broad spectrum of the preservation movement strengthening this country." In addition, nine public officials received certificates of commendation for their contributions to preservation.

The awards were funded by the Rust-Oleum Corporation of Vernon Hills, IL. The National Trust for Historic Preservation is the only national, private, non-profit membership organization dedicated to the protection and continued use of "significant buildings, districts, sites and objects in America." It was chartered by Congress in 1949 and is supported by the public through membership, foundation and corporate gifts, tax-deductible contributions and matching grants from the U.S. Department of the Interior and other federal agencies.

T.H. Gallaudet stamp to be issued in June

The first day ceremony to mark the issuing of the new Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet postage stamp will be celebrated on June 10 at the American School for the Deaf in West Hartford, CT. The event is being sponsored by the American School, the Gallaudet College Alumni Association and Gallaudet College.

A number of official items will be available and can be ordered by persons wishing to remember the occasion.

The United States Postal Service commissioned this stamp as a part of its Great Americans Series. The 20 cent stamp is the first deafness related stamp designed for use as United States postage.

The stamp recognizes Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet as a pioneer in the education of deaf people in the United States. Gallaudet helped found the American School for the Deaf along with Laurent Clerc, a deaf Frenchman, and Mason Cogswell, the father of four-year-old Alice Cogswell. Alice, who was deaf, inspired Gallaudet to devote his life to helping deaf people.

Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet and his deaf wife, Sophia Fowler, had eight children. The eldest, the Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, opened the first church for deaf people in America, St. Ann's Church in New York City. Edward Miner Gallaudet, the youngest child, was the first president of Gallaudet College.

On June 10 only, West Hartford will have a special cancellation which will say "FIRST DAY OF ISSUE." Envelopes or memorabilia bearing the new Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet stamps with the special commemorative cancellations will be available.

The following official first day items can be ordered:

- Colorful envelope sets, including one each of the following four illustrations:
American School for the Deaf
Gallaudet College
Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet portrait
Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet/Alice Cogswell statue sculpted by Daniel Chester French.

The envelopes will be sold only in sets for $3.50 unserviced, and mailed to you when envelopes are ready (for you to take care of stamp affixation at the first day site or mail to Postmaster, West Hartford, CT 06107). Or, they will also be sold in sets for $5 serviced (stamps will be affixed and returned to you after the June 10 postmark is obtained.)

Mail orders for envelopes (either unserved or served) must be accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped legal size (#10 size) envelope with 37 cents return postage per each four-envelope set.

- 8×10 historical fact sheet, suitable for framing, showing pictures of Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, Sophia Fowler Gallaudet, the Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, Edward Miner Gallaudet and Laurent Clerc, along with brief descriptions and the Gallaudet stamp affixed and cancelled on the first day. The fact sheet is limited to 1,000 copies and costs $5 per sheet at the first day site or $6 if ordered by mail, including postage and handling.

- 8×10 portrait of Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet with a facsimile signature and the Gallaudet stamp affixed and cancelled on the first day. The portrait is limited to 500 copies and costs $5 per sheet at the first day site or $6 by mail, including postage and handling.

Orders should be received before the June 10 ceremony. Money orders or checks payable to THG STAMP PROGRAM can be sent to:

American School for the Deaf

West Hartford, CT 06107

Postmaster Gen. William Bolger and alumnus Philip Heupel unveil the portrait of the T.H. Gallaudet stamp at the GCAA reunion last summer.

Books needed

Do you have any old books at home that you no longer need? If so, donate them to the Gallaudet College Library.

The Library will be having a book sale in October, 1983 and would appreciate any books you can contribute. All books can be left with Steven Frank in ME 11 at the Learning Center.

NSF program

The National Science Foundation (NSF) has recently announced a new program, the Presidential Young Investigator Awards, to promote science and engineering education in U.S. colleges and universities and relieve shortages of highly qualified faculty in those fields.

Awards will be made for up to five years, with minimum awards consisting of $25,000. NSF will provide matching funds for contributions from private industry for a total support of up to $100,000. Up to 200 new awards will be made each year, with this year's distribution including up to 100 awards in engineering, 60 in mathematical and physical sciences, 25 in biological sciences and 15 in astronomical, atmospheric, earth and ocean sciences.

Nominees should be full-time tenure-track or tenured faculty who have received their doctorates after Sept. 1, 1976. Graduate and postdoctoral students who have accepted appointments to such positions are also eligible.

The sponsoring institution must submit: (1) a nomination from the department chairperson or analogous administrative head using a program nomination form, which includes a statement of institutional commitment; (2) a complete, up-to-date curriculum vita, including a one-page description of research interests; (3) a statement by the nominee regarding commitment to an academic career; and (4) recommendations from three references not from the nominating institution regarding the nominee's research interests and capability.

For further information, contact the Office of Sponsored Research or Dr. Michael M. Frodyma, Presidential Young Investigator Awards, National Science Foundation, 1800 G St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20550, 357-7536.

Among Ourselves

Bruce White of the English Department has been commissioned by the editor of the four-volume British Literary Magazines to write studies of The English Review and the Rambler. These studies will be included in Volume 3, The Victorian and Edwardian Age, which will be published next year by Greenwood Press.

Barry Crouch of the History Department has been awarded a National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Seminar fellowship to Harvard University. The seminar is entitled "The Comparative Study of Slavery." Crouch will work on a lengthy article concerning the way slaves from ancient times through the 19th century formed families and "legalized" their marriage relations. Crouch, who has been at Gallaudet for three years and is the author of several articles in historical journals, will study at Harvard for two months.

Donalda Ammons of the Romance Languages Department recently returned from two meetings in Colorado Springs. She represented the American Athletic Association of the Deaf at the Handicapped in Sports Committee meeting, under the sponsorship of the Sports Medicine Division of the U.S. Olympic Committee. She was also a delegate at the House of Delegates of USOC. Ammons is vice chairperson of the U.S. Committee, World Games for the Deaf.

Tom Landers, dean of the School of Education and Human Services, presented the keynote address at the annual conference of the Prince Georges County Elementary Principals Association on April 7. He spoke on the topic of "The Federal Agenda for Education." Landers also presented two workshops during the conference on Administrative Effectiveness.

Frank Turk of Student Life, who recently received his doctorate in Education from American University, was initiated into the American University Chapter of the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi on May 7. Phi Kappa Phi members are drawn from outstanding students in all disciplines in American colleges and universities. Turk did his dissertation on "A Comparative Study of Samples of Male and Female Hearing and Hearing-Impaired College Freshmen Along Selected Developmental Dimensions."

With the "sponsorship" of Jim Madachy, Gallaudet was well represented at Clyde's American 10K race in Columbia, MD on May 1. Runners included King Jordan and Joe Fritsch; "others" were Anne Deggendorf, Linda Jordan, Joan Miller, Bob Johnson, Gil Delgado and Sue Mermon. Runners are still awaiting results as to which team consumed the most after-the-race Miller beer.

Two Gallaudet Honors students and two faculty gave workshops at the annual conference of the Northeast Region of the National Collegiate Honors Council recently: students Ellie Savidge and Annette Reichman, and faculty Catherine Ingold and Jane Reehl Dillehay. A videotape based on the sleeping bag seminar hosted by Honors students last November was also featured in the display area. Ingold is running unopposed for the presidency of the regional organization, and Savidge has been nominated as one of the student representatives to the executive council.

MSSD spring fair

The 1930s was the theme of MSSD's annual spring festival, held at the school May 4. The theme was inspired by MSSD's "Babes in Arms," the spring drama production. Above, Performing Arts Instructor Tim McCarty and Business Education Instructor Henri Hill dance in the foreground during the event. Right, Social Studies Instructor Bob Loftus, dressed as a mobster hit man, receives a kiss from Social Studies Instructor Janice Strickland. The event also featured a vintage automobile an T-shirts stamped with the "Babes in Arms" logo. The play itself, performed at MSSD through May 14, drew enthusiastic audiences. Scenes from the play were also performed at the Capitol on May 10.

Proposals can still be submitted for cognition symposium papers

The International Symposium on Cognition, Education, and Deafness, scheduled to be held at Gallaudet in June, 1983 has now received more than 40 proposals from the United States and five other countries for papers on a variety of topics relating to cognitive development of the hearing impaired learner.

All prospective authors are required to submit abstracts by May 31, 1983; the full paper is required by Sept. 15, 1983.

Plans for the Symposium are moving forward, and invitations have been sent to major presenters and critics who are recognized in the field of cognition. Symposium sessions will focus on nine major questions, and prospective authors are asked to address some aspect of one or more of these questions:

- What differences exist in cognition between hearing impaired and hearing learners?
- What variations in cognition for the hearing impaired person are attributable to the effects of cultural background?
- What effects on cognition are attributable to the communication modality of the learner?

- What fundamental brain processes underlie cognition in the hearing impaired person?
- What techniques of cognitive measurement are the most useful in assessing the hearing impaired learner and why?
- What types of interaction are demonstrated between cognition and social-emotional or affective factors in the hearing impaired?
- What educational programs and procedures have been found to be successful school-based intervention strategies for improving the cognitive performance of hearing impaired learners?
- What effects do various parental activities have on the cognitive development of the hearing impaired child?
- What career choice factors are related to cognitive development in the hearing impaired person?

Brochures advertising the Symposium for registration will be ready in October. Anyone interested in submitting a paper abstract by May 31, acquiring more information or participating in the Symposium planning process can contact David Martin, Department of Education, Fowler Hall, x5400.

Merrill receives Preminger medallion

President Edward C. Merrill, Jr. received the Marion Mill Preminger Medallion on May 4 before fellow members of the Executive Committee of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. The presentation was made at the Washington Hilton Hotel.

The award, presented annually by the People to People Committee for the Handicapped, memorializes the late Marion Preminger, who devoted personal and financial efforts to bettering the lives of disabled persons around the world, including leprosy patients. The award medal is the Committee's highest award and is given in recognition of outstanding devotion and dedication to disabled people during the past decade. Chairman David Brigham made the presentation.

Learn about tax shelters Wednesday

Employees of Gallaudet are allowed under Section 403(b) of the Internal Revenue Code to arrange with Gallaudet to divert a portion of their salaries before taxes to purchase additional retirement benefits in the form of tax sheltered annuities (TSAs) or tax sheltered investments (TSIs).

Because of the competitive nature of these markets today, the Personnel Office is sponsoring a 403(b) Tax Shelter Program this Wednesday, May 18, in the Multipurpose Room of Ely Center to highlight the availability of the program and the specific plans that are involved.

The session will begin at 3 p.m. with an overview of the 403(b) program followed by summary presentations by representatives of each of the plans currently offered. In addition, a new TSA plan will be introduced to the program. The session will end with a period of free time until 6 p.m. during which employees will be able to meet individually with representatives of their choice.

TSAs have been available to employees since 1973 and TSIs since 1981. Basically, the 403(b) program works the same whether an employee elects to participate in a TSA (guaranteed returns) or a TSI (no guarantee). A certain amount of money is set aside before taxes each pay period in order to purchase an annuity or investments. The money that is deposited into the TSA or TSI is exempt from federal and local (MD, VA and DC) income taxes. Deposits are Deaf artist Daniel Wang, above, gives a demonstration of painting at a reception for "Spotlight on Deaf Artists II," sponsored by the Office of Fine Arts in Education, in the Learning Center May 3. Wang has been trained in the art of Chinese watercolor and has exhibited in Hong Kong, San Francisco, Canada, Manila and Singapore. Below, he presents the painting "Saturday," which he completed in two hours during the reception, to Deborah Sonnestrahl of Fine Arts in Education and President Merrill. The painting will be on display in the Alumni House.

Kendall students make pizzas

Seven Kendall students ranging in age from eight to 15 had the opportunity to make their own pizzas recently at a Tiny Chefs cooking class in D.C.

The teacher who conducted the class for the Kendall students was Cindy Drawdy, a home economics major who graduates from Gallaudet this year. She passed out white chef's hats to lend an air of authenticity to the proceedings before the students got to work. They stirred flour, yeast and water to make the dough. Shortening was poured on hands to lubricate them and keep the dough from sticking.

After the mixture was ready, students added pizza sauce and mozzarella cheese to make individual pizzas.

The students were taken by bus from Kendall School to the Jacques Blanc Academie of Cuisine on Massachusetts Avenue and Yuma Streets where Tiny Chefs classes are taught. Those in the class were Joseph Snead, Kendra Logan, Mattie Goodman, Irving Turner, Melissa Jones, Shanika Hill and Patrick Ridgell.

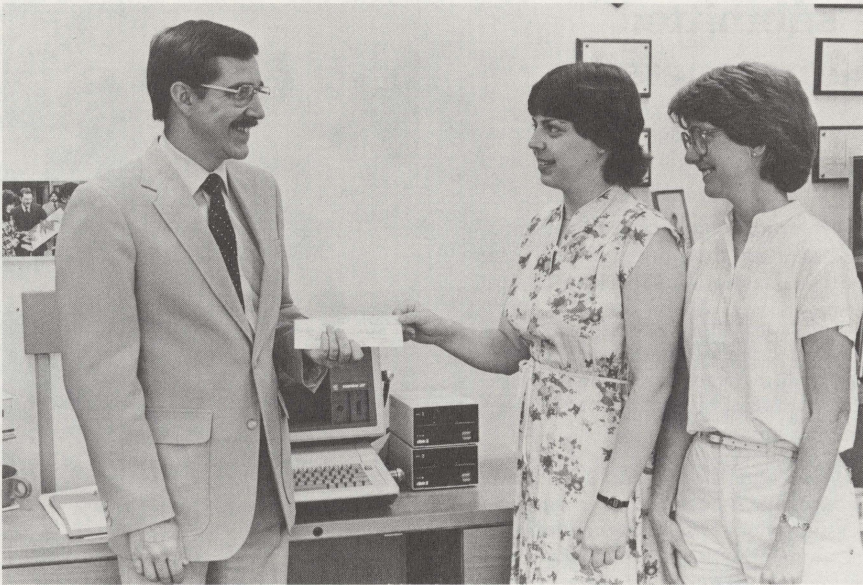

Kendall teachers Sherry Lehr, Andrea Shreve and aide Cheryl Coulston accompanied the students.

The South West Festival of the Arts is presenting its 5th Annual Photographic Competition. Judging will be held on May 25.

Anyone who's interested can enter photographs in the contest on Saturday, May 21 and Sunday, May 22 from 9 a.m.-6:30 p.m. at Channel Inn, 650 Water St. SW in Washington. The three categories in the competition are slides, color prints and black and white prints/monochrome. Both advanced (professional) and novice (amateur) photographs will be chosen. Winning prints will be displayed at the South West Festival of the Arts on Sunday, June 5 (rain date Sunday, June 12) at Southwest Waterfront Park, 6th and M Streets SW.

For more information call J. Johnson, 554-3896 or C. Kelly, 783-5484.

President Heather Bouten and Secretary Lois McIntyre of Delta Epsilon Sorority present KDES Dean Mike Deninger with a check for Kendall School from the sorority.

Joyce E. Jackson is the administrative secretary with the Office of Institutional Advancement. She previously taught communication courses at Howard University and Washington International College. She has her BA in Public Communication from American University and MA in Speech Communication. Her phone number is x5075.

Joyce C. Jackson is a secretary/receptionist with the Division of Research. She worked at Gallaudet the past year and recently has returned to work following maternity leave. Prior to working here, she was a secretary at the National Science Foundation for seven years. She can be contacted at x5030.

Class of 1933 reunion scheduled

A Class of 1933 reunion will be held on Kendall Green during the Commencement weekend.

Members of the class will be arriving on campus May 21 and leaving May 23. Planned activities include a golden anniversary brunch in the Ole Jim on May 22, a guided tour of Kendall Green and the Northwest Campus, and front row seats at Commencement.

The Class of 1933 has 30 members, although probably not all of them will attend the event.

For further information about the reunion, contact Mary Anne Pugin in the Alumni House, x5105 TDD.

Interpreted service

The First Baptist Church of the City of Washington, D.C. at 16th and O Streets NW is now interpreting its Sunday morning worship service for hearing impaired persons. The service begins at 11 a.m.

Future possibilities include classes to teach signed interpretation to interested congregation and community members.
